Aerothrive opens subsidiary in Poland

Aerothrive GmbH, a service provider specializing in aviation safety, has opened its new subsidiary Aerothrive Global Business Services Sp. z oo (AGBS) in Bydgoszcz, Poland. The company, which is considered a leading provider of audit services in the area of the airline safety standard SARPcheck, is thus expanding its international presence and strengthening its business activities in Europe.

With around 100 aviation experts worldwide and well-known customers such as Air France, Korean Air, Lufthansa and Aeroméxico, Aerothrive is committed to strategic expansion. The new branch in Poland will initially provide services for the parent company in Germany, including tasks in the areas of administration, finance, sales and marketing. The new company will be managed by Agnieszka Ciesla, who has extensive experience in the aviation industry.

In the long term, Aerothrive plans to expand the services it offers beyond its own company to other European customers. Patrick Lutz, Managing Director of Aerothrive and AGBS, emphasized the importance of the new location for the company's growth and the optimization of service quality in the aviation sector.
